The Aroostook Railroad.

Speech of Mr. McCrillis, of Bangor, Delivered in the House of Representatives, during the discussion of the Aroostook Railroad Bill.

(Concluded.)

Mr. Speaker, the emigrants contribute one hundred and seventy five thousand dollars towards the construction of the second division of this road. You make all your land for fifty cents an acre, payable in road value. This bill increases the price to one dollar. What compensation has the emigrant for this? The money he pays for his land is expended to build a railroad, to enhance the value of his farm. It is unnecessary to argue that it will be increased in value much more than the increased price which he pays. To any man who has the ambition to obtain a homestead for himself and his family, it will give a higher and a nobler object to his economy and labor.—What compensation have the State for their contribution to the second division of the road? What compensation will you and your children receive for the settlement and development of the Northern and Eastern sections of this great State? I cannot tell you, sir. I would as soon attempt to portray to your minds the advantages of fruitful seasons—of the refreshing showers of summer, or of the rains and dews of heaven. I can tell you something of the wise and policy you have hitherto pursued with your public domain. I can tell something of the influence of this railroad in settling Aroostook, and of the value of population to you.

Your public lands were originally derived from the British Crown. Your title came from Massachusetts under the articles of separation. These lands were never paid for from the Treasury. They did not belong to the Treasury. They belonged equally to every individual in the State. You have sold them and paid the proceeds into your Treasury, and appropriated them to pay your current expenses.—You have divided them in proportion to property. The citizen who had one hundred thousand dollars has realized one hundred fold more than he with one thousand dollars, and he with one thousand dollars of taxable property one thousand fold more than no with none. Other States who have had a public domain, have appropriated it to education or some work of public improvement—in the advantages of which the whole people could participate.—Such a policy was doubly obligatory upon you. When Maine became an independent State, she was new and uncultivated. Her position was analogous to the new Western States, where the aim of the government and of the public men has uniformly been to increase their population and develope their resources by internal improvements. You, of all the States, have appropriated your domain for the support of your government. Something I know has been done for education and for common highways, but you have never attached to the dignity of a policy. You have sold your public domain to pay your daily expenses. Like the husbandman who would refuse in seed time to sow, preferring to sell a portion of his farm to support a family. In vain for him the ever active forces of nature. In vain for him the rains of heaven. When he should reap the harvest of autumn, he must part with a portion of his inheritance. It would have been a wise policy for you to have husbanded your domain with cultivators of the soil. You might have now been reaping the harvest of increased population, with all per influences upon your wealth, your prosperity, your industrial pursuits, your commerce and trade. To increase your productive industry is the true economy. Your lands have gone and have left no monument of public improvement. Nothing to which you can point as a memorial than you once had a public domain. I doubt very much, sir, whether after all it has relieved property much from taxation. The management of them has been expensive, and money which comes easy and without labor into our pockets generally leaves in the same easy and unceremonious manner. It is true of your Treasury, and it also leaves the sting of corruption behind it. I doubt if any man in the State can be found who will say that the public domain has added one dollar to his wealth or prosperity.

A remnant of your public lands are left. I admit it is late in the day, but at last you have awakened to the necessity of a new and better policy. You now endeavor to settle and occupy it. You have wisely determined to sell only to actual cultivators of its soil. You now think, and wisely, that the population can alone give value to it—that settlement, and settlement alone, can change the unproductive wilderness into a cultivated field, and add to the taxable property of the State. This railroad will, carry out your policy. It is the great and only instrument which will crown it with success. Within the emigrants will multiply, the wilderness will be explored and subdued, new towns and villages will spring up, and the whole country become settled and cultivated.

Sir, I might claim as a simple act of justice that the remaining portion of these lands shall be appropriated to aid the people of Maine who emigrate to Aroostook, without any reference to the advantage which the State will derive from it. These people, as a general rule, have never received any benefit from these lands. But there is no necessity for such an argument. The people of the State will, and must derive great advantages from the settlement of Aroostook. Besides, so far as your settling lands are concerned, you give nothing to this railroad. You may sell them for fifty cents an acre, payable in road labor. No money finds its way into the Treasury from this source; on the contrary, they constitute a heavy charge upon it. Indeed, you cannot for the next ten years make the account in your favor, with all your lands.

This bill is a betterment act, and ought to be so entitled, and one of the most grand and magnificent scale, for it will add millions to the value of the State. It is a betterment for the settler, for it enhances the value of his farm beyond the advanced price which he pays. It is a betterment act for the railroad, for the lands will pay the principal of the loan to the State. You cannot, say that this bill diminishes the value of those lands to your Treasury. As well and with far more truth might the merchant complain that his ship had been diminished in value by being compelled to contribute to the purchase of the canvass which bears into the sail, and spread to the breeze, enables her to plough the ocean and go upon her errand of commerce and profit.

That part of the Aroostook lying east of the seventh range line, and to which we have before alluded, contains nearly three millions of acres of land. If its towns were to be placed side by side in one line, they would extend from this capitol to the Federal capitol at Washington.

You have a great domain there, and to you it is a matter of indifference who may be its proprietors. The settlement and occupation of the territory is what you desire. If you were the proprietor of every acre of it, you could not be more interested. If you were not the proprietor of a single acre you could not be less interested.

Pass this bill, and you may turn a stream of emigration thither. Pass this bill, and you may exchange its unproductive forests for a cultivated field. Pass this bill, and you may exchange the solitude of its wilderness for the busy hum of industry, for the sound of the human voice, and the lowing of herds upon all its hills and in all its valleys.

Adopt this policy, and you need not fear for its results. You need not fear to answer to your own conscience, to your fellow citizens, to your children and to posterity.

In ancient Rome, when some women visited the matron Lucretia, they asked her to show them her ornaments, meaning her ornaments of gold and curious workmanship, she called her two boys, (afterward distinguished in the annals of their country,) into her presence, and pointing to them, exclaimed "these are my jewels."

Sir, if you are asked hereafter to show the fruits of your policy, you can point to the church and the school-house, to smiling villages, to happy homes, and a contented population.

Mr. Speaker, what is the value of population to you? What the commercial—the money value? The value of the foreign emigrant is reckoned from five hundred to one thousand dollars, for each man, woman and child. A distinguished man in our country has said, that when Illinois adds one hundred thousand emigrants to her population, she adds one hundred million dollars to her value. There is no idle or costly production as the human being, who represents a great deal of land and money. He is the most valuable of all productions to the State.

The valuation of Ohio increased from 1850 to 1858, from four hundred and fifty millions of dollars to eight hundred and fifty millions. I hold in my hand the certificate of the Auditor of that State. The other Western States increased almost in like proportion. It was not iron rails which they laid down which gave this increased value. It was the population which they attracted thither by these facilities of communication and transportation. How long will you hug this delusive phantom of your public lands to your bosom, this skeleton, and try to extract something from its dry bones, and look on, and see the youth of your State, and the bone and muscle of your State depart, never to return.

Mr. Speaker, we, alone, hold the key to the inland trade, and intercommunication of the great Province east of us, and bring it into our State, and never in the history of our State has a case been presented appealing so strongly to every feeling of State pride and State ambition.

We hold in our grasp the entire trade of the great basin of the Upper St. John, with all of its fertile lands, and its future growth and prosperity, and we are all well aware that this railroad will forever unite its destinies with us. Shall it be deliberately sacrificed and transferred to others? Shall weak, timid, and irresolute counsels prevail?

Sir, other causes have undoubtedly exerted a powerful influence in delaying the settlement of Aroostook. The West, with its long lines of railroad, and its fertile lands have attracted our population thither. We have done nothing to settle our lands. The West have done everything. If the application of steam had never been discovered; if Fulton and Watts had never lived, Maine might and would have had one million of inhabitants. In 1843 the Erie Canal was completed. Its effect upon the development of the West has been beyond calculation. The attention of our people, ever active, enterprising and energetic, was soon directed thither. Within ten years from that time, emigration from this State commenced. Before that, none had been to us. Between 1844 and 1847 the progress of the West in the construction of railroads was marvellous, opening vast regions of fertile lands for settlement, making them accessible and bringing them near to market. With these additional attractions and facilities, and with a population increased to an extent never before witnessed from any other State in the Union, I estimate within the last twenty five years Maine has lost one hundred millions of dollars in money and muscle, and ten millions in men.

This emigration culminated in 1857. Since that time the tide has rapidly ebbed. Various causes will prevent its reversal for many years from any part of New England on an extensive scale. We may at least postpone it in Maine until Aroostook is occupied. Among the most potential of the causes of the cessation of emigration is the low price of agricultural productions, and the high price of land in favorable and desirable locations. The former will not be likely to advance much for many years to come. This side of the Mississippi, the country is so much occupied, and wealth has so multiplied, and the population of the country is so rapidly increasing that the advance on the price of the land will be likely to be maintained. A great deal of the unoccupied land in Illinois and Wisconsin is valued at twelve, twenty, or even fifty dollars per acre. The settler, with moderate means, must banish himself far from roads and from the comforts and conveniences of civilized life, and where the value of his productions will be absorbed in the cost of transportation.

At present, Aroostook, with this railroad, offers greatly superior attractions. I know that in the West, the prairie is ready for the plow, while in Aroostook, the land must be redeemed from dense forests; but in Aroostook there is plenty of wood for fuel and other purposes, while in the West it is frequently difficult and expensive to obtain it. In desirable locations, at the West, the land must be purchased at high prices, while in Aroostook it is but one dollar per acre. In the West, the emigrant must encounter a change of climate, and frequently of diseases, while Aroostook is as healthy and salubrious as any portion of the New England emigrant finds a population more congenial to his tastes, habits and education, and it certainly is far more productive in all the moral, social and educational wants of New Englanders. With this railroad the emigrant can go to the Aroostook in a single day, while it is a long journey to the West, and sever him from the land of his birth and the home of his kindred. Recently, sir, I saw a letter from a most intelligent man in Iowa, well known in this State, and every way qualified to judge. He says: "The people of Aroostook are far better situated than those of Iowa. You only hear in Maine the bright side. You do not hear of the chilling winds of the prairies—the privations and sorrows of actual life with us. I thank God," he adds, "that I have not been instrumental in persuading my old neighbors in Aroostook to come out here."

Sir! the emigration from Maine has, in some degree, been from necessity. Maine had offered no inducements to her sons to remain at home. There are thousands of men who are as much attached to their State as any gentleman upon the floor. They do not desire to emigrate from it—nor do they desire to exchange the robust health and ruddy complexion which belongs to the sons of Maine, for the pale hues of the hills and fever of the West. They have always breathed the pure air of our hills and valleys, and do not desire to leave them. In every part of our State, in every town in the State, and almost every family in the State, the pursuit is agriculture, there are those active, intelligent, and industrious young men, to whom a new home is a necessity—to whom emigration from the old homestead is indispensable. They go forth from the place of their birth with New England habits and education to make for themselves new homes, and to pursue the employment and imitate the virtues of their fathers. There are thousands of sons in New England, who, scantily employed and scantily paid, cannot any longer submit to the terms of their employers, and whose only hope of the future is by the aid of their children to hew out for themselves a new home in the forest, and cultivate the soil. There are thousands whose thoughts constantly prompt them to seek more of independence—more of scope and more of the smiles of fortune in some new country than has hitherto fallen to their lot. There are thousands of families, who, disatisfied and weary with their present situation, believe, and with truth, that the condition of all—father, mother, sons and daughters would be improved by emigration to some country where they could find an abundance of cheap land, and a thrifty and prosperous population. Sir, it is unnecessary to dwell longer upon the various necessities and motives which, amongst the ever restless and fortune seeking American, cause to emigrate.

Sir, I ask if those emigrating classes are to be retained in our State? Are they to be invited to come hither from the other New England States? Are our young men to be kept at home, or are they still to continue to go forth from us to cultivate the fields of Iowa, Illinois and Michigan—to fell the forests of Michigan and Minnesota, and gather the golden sands of California and Australia? Sir, I shall leave the fathers of Maine with me in favor of this railroad, for there is not a town in the State in which there are not some who mourn the exile of their sons to the far West. Sir, I shall leave the mothers of Maine for the railroad, for their sons emigrate and leave the daughters here at home. Sir, gentlemen may smile, but I tell them that I do not contract the dignity of the Legislature to consider this matter, for there is no surer evidence of the decay of a State, than a great preponderance of the female over the male population. But, I am told that Aroostook is away in the Northeast part of the frontier State of Maine. So it is—but this railroad will bring its principal towns within six hours of Bangor, and twelve hours of Portland, and its fertile lands as near tide water as the lands in the vicinity of Paris, Norridgewock and Farmington, were twenty years ago. Sir, I know there are sacrifices to be made, and sorrows and privations to be endured in settling a new country—but I assert, from my own observation, that there is not a more happy and contented population in New England than may be found in Aroostook. There is no time that a settler is more prosperous, than for the first few years after he has commenced to clear his land. It is not all sorrow. Happiness is not all confined to cities and the haunts of trade. The emigrant has his joys as well as sorrows. I know the proud exultation with which he looks upon the forked and curling flames which consume the felled forest, revealing for the first time to the sunlight of Heaven and his own vision, the soil which is thereafter to be home and support of himself, his wife and his children. I know the joy and gladness which fills his heart as he views waving fields of grain ripening into the autumnal harvest, where but a few months before stood the primeval forest, and reflects that this change has all been the work of his own hands.

Sir, I ask gentlemen if those emigrating classes of which I have spoken are to be retained in our state if they are to be induced to come hither from the other New England States? Where can we present so attractive lands as in the fertile lands in Aroostook? If Maine is ever to be settled will not Aroostook be first occupied? To what other part of our State can emigration be directed and the tide of it to the West arrested? Is any other part of our State held in such estimation by the public as Aroostook? Can we hope wholly or partially to prevent the emigration of our people, unless we can turn their footsteps to her fertile lands? Do gentlemen have any hope or expectation it can be done in any other manner? And if not, do we mean to say, sir, for the want of such facilities of communication as the West affords, our people shall always go there to add to their population and wealth and our own lands remain uncopied? Sir, for twenty years you have substantially given away your public lands and not more than one thousand lots have been taken during all that period in Aroostook. During the past year under the belief that a railroad would be constructed, nearly one thousand emigrants have gone thither. Go into your Land Department and you may hear of emigrants coming, during the present season from New Hampshire, Vermont and Massachusetts. If the opinion of your Land Agent who is no ordinary judge, if this bill shall pass ten thousand will be added to the population of Aroostook this year. A quarter of a century since there was a large emigration from the other New England States to Maine? Shall it be renewed or will you let it cease? Sir, the emigrant is a power on earth. Ever since the days of Daniel Boone and the Pilgrims his march has been onward. Sixty-nine years ago the first white inhabitant settled in Ohio. Now, sir, the great Northwest contains nearly ten millions of inhabitants. He has carried your flag across the continent and established states and territories on the Pacific. The type of the original has somewhat faded red. The Democrat cared nothing for land as the market of Republicans was discussed to him. He would hold, forsooth, a distant smoke of another's cabin. He cared nothing for the education of his children. More pressing duties were upon him. His family, like his companion and protector, he did not know in the morning but that the scalps of his sire and children would adorn "the belt of some savage warrior before night fall." But long ago he and the red man both disappeared together, at least from the side of the Mississippi. The modern pilgrimage wends land at government prices. He wants cattle and crops. He wants long lines of railroad and canal to transport his products to market. He wants population to add to his wealth and social enjoyments. He wants education for his children and intelligence for himself. He wants the newspaper that he may know something of the affairs of the world as well as others. He wants to understand as well as we the simple difference between Mr. Douglas and the administration, or, in lieu of the prospect of the acquisition of the Island of Cuba and to calculate the chances of Mr. Seward for the Presidency. He does not wish to go to Aroostook and become isolated from his countrymen with no associations except with the subjects of simply power. It no would secure his novel able services build the railroad. Build the railroad for him and he will surely build for you a new State in Aroostook.

STATE OF MAINE.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, AUGUSTA, April 6, 1859.

An adjourned session of the Executive Council will be held at the Council Chamber in Augusta, on TUESDAY, the third day of May next.

ATTEST: NOAH SMITH, JR. Secretary of State.

THE NEXT CONGRESS.—All the Congressional elections in all the Northern States are now completed, except one member in Rhode Island, the result of which need not be doubted. Of the thirty Northern members of the House of Representatives who voted for the Lecompton Bill, but six have been re-elected, viz: Sickles, John Cochrane, and McClay of New York, Florence and Dimmick of Pennsylvania, and Niblack of Indiana. It would be difficult, says the Courier & Enquirer, to find in the whole history of the Government an act of public unfaithfulness so inexorably punished.

The Republicans and true anti Lecompton democrats who were elected by Republican votes, will probably be, also to organize the House. At all events the opposition to the regular democracy will have a large majority. Among the candidates already mentioned for the Speakership, by Washington and New York papers, Hon. Israel Washburn, Jr., of our State is prominent. He stands at the head of a list given by a leading paper now before us.

WHAT THE CHARLESTON CONVENTION WILL DO.—The New Hampshire Democratic Standard, edited by Edmund Burke, contains an editorial article against the doctrine of "Popular Sovereignty," denouncing it as a vile heresy, and winding up with the following somewhat emphatic declaration:

"That heresy will be repudiated by the next Charleston Convention, and, in that event, the Democracy of this State will secede from its present position, or go over to the enemy."

THE SICKLES CASE.—It seems by the telegraphic report of the Judge's recent decision in the Sickles case, that the prudent curiosity of the public is to be indulged with the detailed proofs of the adultery between Key and Mrs. Sickles. These may be followed, perhaps, by an exposition of the delectable passages of like character in the life of Mr. Sykes—to show that he had no particular occasion of going into convulsions at the discovery of dishonor in the family.

MEMOIR OF CAPT. W. T. BATE: By Rev. John Bolton, of Cambridge, England. New York: R. Carter & Bros. 1858.

Capt. Bate was a worthy and distinguished officer, in the British Royal Navy. The history of his life, presented in this volume, recounts many incidents and scenes of thrilling interest to the general reader. The principal object of the Memoir, however, is to show how a man may combine first-rate attainments in his calling with the brightest graces of the Christian life. Red cy Vivars and Havelock were no less brave soldiers because they were not ashamed to confess them. And it will be seen in these pages how a sailor may unite to professional capacity and personal valour, the meek and devoted character of a disciple of the Cross."

The book is for sale by Mr. E. F. Duren.—It is a beautiful little volume, printed in the most tasteful of modern typography.

HYMNS OF THE AGES.—With an Introduction by Rev. F. D. Huntington, D. D. Boston: Phillips, Sampson & Co., 1859.

This selection of sacred poetry, which mainly embraces the most devotional and the most consolatory, as well as the most rare and beautiful of the hymns which are to be found in the Lyra Catholica, or Catholic collection, is issued by the above publishers, in an exquisite style of antique typography and elegant binding, and forms one of the most beautiful volumes issued from the press this year. The publication is present to the community some of the noble and stirring poetry of the older church hymns—such as are devotional, soothing, peaceful, to the religious heart, while, at the same time, free from all sectarian bias. Some of the most beautiful poetry in the English language is contained in this volume.

Pistols and clubs are now considered the most convincing arguments by the differing democrats in Ohio. At the Toledo city election last week, Scott, the Douglas leader in that part of the State, and one Johnson, who heads the Buchanan ticket, undertook to determine in that way who democracy and popular sovereignty really is. The crowd wouldn't allow that sort of discussion however—and the pugnacious disputants scared each other with their tongues only.

AN AGED JUROR.—Mr. Jesse Traumel, residing in Greenville, S. C., who has attained the age of one hundred years, served for a week in court as a petit juror. He went through the labors of the week without serious fatigue; his hearing and sight is as good as those of most men thirty years his junior; and he is still possessed of good memory and intelligence.

The blindness of Justice is sometimes prejudicial to her interest. A man on trial in Utica, N. Y., for larceny, was sitting near his counsel within the bar, when the jury went out to consult—anticipating their verdict, he rose and with coolness walked out of the room, the door of which was politely opened by the constable, who did not recognize the prisoner. When the jury, after an absence of five minutes, returned, they found a verdict of guilty, but had lost the criminal.

Review of the Cuba Markets.

HAVANA, (Cuba,) April 9th, 1859.

The week closing to-day, opened with a good demand, principally from the British Channel and Spain. Holders were generally successful in obtaining from 8 to 9½ rs per arroba for good dry sugars, bas No. 12. The unfavorable war news by Isabel, created a momentary panic, resulting in depressing the sugar market, and a few small lots have since been sold at 8½ rls, (and to be of good quality.)

The full effect of the news cannot be felt until next week. Factors show great firmness, and their means are such as to enable them to hold their produce for a long time.—To-day the planter, not the merchant, is the speculator.

Fires in several of the cane growing districts have done a good deal of personal injury, but the crop being far advanced the effect on the general product will be slight. The estimated loss is 20,000 boxes.

Stock to-day is computed—between here and Matanzas 245,000 boxes against 203,000 same time last year.

The demand for Muscovado sugars has very much diminished. Prices range from 7½ to 8½ rs per arroba, at out ports. Stock at Matanzas 6,400 hhds, and at Cardenas 5,600. Here there is nothing doing.

Exports of sugars during the week from the port and Matanzas, amount to 30,216 boxes, 2,243 hhds—distributed as follows, viz:

HONEST ADMIRATIONS.—A correspondent of the Portland State of Maine says:

"The people of the State of Maine may well be proud of the doings of the past Legislature for passing the Manufacturing encouragement bill, and the Railroad aid bill. If I am not greatly mistaken this manufacturing bill, will cause hundreds of capitalists to be looking at our thousands of fine water privileges, and contiguous land, for investments of their vast surplus capital, now rusting for want of use, in the Banks. Maine, all agree, furnishes great inducements for manufacturing on large scale, having cheap and durable materials for all building purposes, accessible harbors at all seasons of the year, cheap storage, cheap transit to the interior, and a farming interest ready at work to supply all demands for food at the most reasonable rates; so, that in any of our interior towns, robust men and hard-fed for two thirds what it costs in Massachusetts.

"I see no earthly reason why the cap tains of purchasing of other States, should not look at our facilities, make up their minds, and go to work immediately.

"I am no prophet nor the son of a prophet, but I think five years hence we shall look back, and point to this year as the year Maine took her progressive position, and moved on with rapid strides to that prosperity and greatness her resources so much entitle her to."

MARINE NOTICES.—Accounts from Key West to April 10 state that the slave brig Tyrant which was built at Rockland, was condemned. Judge Marvin gave the Custom House officers who seized her 50 per cent, and the wreckers who got her off the shore 40 per cent, less expenses in both cases. The vessel was advertised for sale by the United States Marshal, on the 18th of April. She is worth about $60,000. Capt. Lind has been arrested, and is in prison awaiting his trial.

Ship Malhouse, of and from New Orleans for Havre, before reported lost, bilged about thirty-six hours after striking. The passengers and crew were sent immediately to Key West and wreckers commenced saving the cargo. The ship was built in Thomaston, is four years old, and insured for $65,000. The value of vessel and cargo before the accident is estimated at $250,000. The loss will exceed $200,000. The Court have issued an order to the United States Marshal to sell the damaged cotton and the ship's materials. The sale was to have been made on the 13th inst. The number of bales now saved exceed 2,000, of which only 70 are dry.

MANUFACTURING CORPORATIONS IN SACO AND BIDDEFORD.—The aggregate capital of the three cotton manufacturing corporations in Biddeford and Saco is $3,207,000 distributed as follows:

York Manf'g Co. Saco,	$1,200,000
Laconia Manf'g Co. Biddeford,	1,007,000
Peppered Manf'g Co.,	1,000,000

These Companies have in full operation, eleven brick, ribbed, steam-warmed, gas-lighted, cotton factories, six of which are of the largest class in the country. They contain one hundred and fifty thousand spindles, 3,700 looms, that turn out annually 32 million yards of cloth of various qualities, colors and widths.

They use of cotton in a year 28,000 bales, which at the present price of the staple, costs at the mills, $1,680,000. Their eleven mills employ about 2000 operatives. Their monthly pay rolls amount to upwards of $50,000. They use annually 3,500 tons anthracite coal, 20,000 gallons best sperm oil, 6 to 8 tons of tallow, 100 tons potato starch, three millions subs for 1 of coal gas, and many other supplies. The annual sales of their various cotton fabrics amount to three and a half millions of dollars.

By a census taken for the School Committee, we learn that the number of scholars in this town on the first of the month, was 851. The whole number of inhabitants is 2631.

ASSAULT ON A POLICEMAN—PROBABLE FATAL RESULT.—On Sunday afternoon, Policeman Charles L. York attempted to arrest a young man in Murray Hill, by the name of Francis Conroy, on a charge of breaking into a house on Saturday night, and stealing therefrom sundry articles. The father and mother of Conroy, inside, attack on York, and to defend himself he was obliged to let the young man go. Young Conroy, immediately commenced throwing stones at the officer, one of which hit him on the side of his head, giving him a serious wound. Mr York, with the aid of another of the police, succeeded in taking the older Conroy to the watch-house, when York was obliged to be taken home. In the evening he commenced vomiting, and from about 8 o'clock on Sunday evening he has been in a deadly stupor, and there is scarcely a hope that he will survive.

The father and mother were taken in custody, and yesterday morning the assailant was arrested in Yarmouth, and lodged in jail. He is a mere youth, not more than 15 years of age, but is rather a desperate character.

We learn that there was no fracture of the skull, but everything indicated an extravasation of blood on the brain of the sufferer. At a late hour yesterday afternoon the symptoms were little more favorable; but at 12 o'clock last night the physician entertained no hope of his recovery.—Port and Adv.

AN ELEGANT DENTAL ESTABLISHMENT.—If our readers would obtain an idea of the great extent of business in the Dental profession in this city, we advise them to visit the extensive rooms of Drs. Jennings & Flagg, No. 25 Tremont street, embracing seven apartments devoted expressly to dental practice. Having just refitted and refurnished their rooms, they now present the most elegant and tasteful appearance, surpassing in extent, comfort and convenience, any similar establishment in the country. The beautiful specimens of artificial teeth, single, whole sets, and pairs of sets, attract special attention, and challenge the admiration, not more of the general observer than the strictly scientific, who can fully appreciate their perfect accuracy and beauty. We have often seen commendatory notices of their work, but have never observed the less exaggeration, and not one statement in reference to "excellence" which we would not cheerfully endorse, from personal knowledge. The Medals and Diplomas awarded at various times, adorn them at the head of their profession, but to appreciate the skill and superior workmanship of the very gentlemanly conductors of this extensive establishment, the public should call and examine for themselves. We are sure that as their work challenges the admiration of all so all their dental operations are most scientific and skillful.

FRANCE.—The Paris letter writers were mainly engrossed with speculations as to Count Cavour's visit and its consequences. He is reported to have reached Paris full of doubts and misgivings but after his interviews with the Emperor he became quite buoyant, and according to rumor, had declared that he had no apprehension of the future, and in fact that he was master of the situation. Cavour was believed to be bent on war.

TELEGRAPHIC

TO THE DAILY WHIG AND COURIER

The Sickles Case.

WASHINGTON, 19.

Judge Crawford took his seat on the bench at twenty minutes past ten, and after an interval of several minutes passed in complete silence, Mr. Sickles came in accompanied by his counsel and friends, and his faithful, inseparable companion, Rev Mr Hale.

The same faces have been seen in the court day after day, and the room is always filled to its utmost capacity.

The judicial decision yesterday admitting the evidence of the adultery took all by surprise. This decision hardly covers the admission of rebutting evidence. The defence will be through with its proof to-morrow, and the trial will probably be over this day week.—Two counsel sum up on each side.

PHILADELPHIA, 19th.

In the U. S. District Court to-day before Judge Grier, in an India Rubber suit to restrain the defendants from violating the rights of the plaintiff under Goodyears vulcanizing patent by the sale of woven shirred goods.—The motion was opened on the part of the complainant by T. A. Jorckes. The point in the case is the question of ownership of a certain address between Day and Judson.

Pueblo Cabella advices of the 22d inst, are received.

The country was in a state of revolution. Gen Gawaez had been routed by Pinto and his regiment killed. Gen Gawaez had a force of 800 men, but was short of arms.

Gen Zamora had plundered San Felipe of $10,000 worth of property.

Pueblo Cabello was in arms, and the stores and hill the town.

Troops were landing from the east.

WASHINGTON, 19th.

The amendment to the Kansas-Nebraska treaty provides that the United States shall engage to use the vigilance and all lawful means to prevent the organization of hostile parties in this country intended for the invasion of Nicaragua.

While some prominent gentlemen look upon the action of Nicaragua upon our good faith, as showing on the neutrality laws, and as unnecessary, others are disposed to regard it as but another evidence of the disposition of Nicaragua to cultivate friendly relations with us. Sight of the amendments, it is not certain that it will be acceptable to the administration, which has not given to it due consideration.

With regard to the efforts of the British minister to remove the obstacles to the Clayton Bulwer treaty, present appearances, if not appearances, are such as not to change the belief that there will be a favorable solution of the question. It has heretofore been confidently stated that the Paraguay fleet has been ordered to Central America, but such does not now seem to be probable, although several of the vessels will be sent to the Gulf, which they will be again put in commission. It is conceived that there is sufficient force in Central America for all practical purposes.

Bark Count of Paris, Rogers, at New York, from Cardenas, encountered a heavy SE gale 14th inst, during which she lost bulwarks, etc. Lost maintopmast by collision with an unknown schooner 8th inst, off Nantucket Shoals.

The Wax Question.—The Washington correspondent of the New York Herald says:

Judge Stuart Department is in receipt of letters brought by the last European steamer, from our ministers in England, France, Madrid and Vienna. The indications, write Messrs. Dallas and Mason, are anything but good. The impression is universal among foreign men that a general European war will broke out ere long convulse the entire continent of Europe, that the Peace Congress which is to assemble may postpone, but cannot prevent it.

PIANO FORTES!
THE subscriber would respectfully inform the inhabitants of Bangor and vicinity, that he has just arrived from NEW YORK, and has taken
Store No. 19 Main Street,
Where he has on exhibition, and for sale, for a few days only, a few of those
ELEGANT
Rosewood Piano Fortes!
Manufactured by the celebrated makers,
Messrs. Cummings & Canfield,
OF NEW YORK CITY.
These Pianos are full Seven Octave, elegantly finished in Rosewood, with beautiful Pearl Keys, which are unlike the Ivory, as they never change their color, and at the same time are by far more durable. The first octave in the Base of these Pianos is composed of a set of wrapped silver wires, running parallel with the side of the Piano, the whole crossing the Sounding-board. Thus, with the increased length of both Base and Treble strings, a length of scale equal to the grand or long Piano is afforded, and a richness, fullness and abundance of tone hitherto unknown on any square Piano, is produced.
There is still another point in this arrangement—the length of scale being equal to the Grand Piano, and upon a principle that acts as a contra balance to the diagonal strain of the other strings, a very desirable object is effected in strengthening the frame and bracing the whole action. All the interior arrangements sustain such a complete relation to each other that it necessarily insures the greatest amount of musical harmony, producing a superb volume and roundness of tone, and the most perceptible elasticity of touch.
Messrs. CUMMINGS & CANFIELD received the First Premium
At the Great World's Fair in New York, for producing the finest toned Piano over all other makers; and have received the first premium at all the principal Fairs throughout the country.
These Pianos will be offered at fifty Dollars less than our fixed prices in New York, and every Piano fully warranted for three years.
During our short stay at Augusta we sold of the elegant instruments to Judge Farnsworth, Hon. J. W. Porter, J. W. Prescott, Esq., Hillsborough Barrows, Mr. Lithgow, Moses Gilman, Esq., Mr. A. A. Batues, G. R. Partridge, J. G. Woodbury, Esq., and James Shaw.

Pure Maple Sugar.
I TAKE pleasure in informing my old customers and others, that my Spring supply of Maple Sugar, from the interior of Vermont, has just arrived, fresh from the sugar trees, and can be had at my house on French street, and at the Mutual Fire in Norombega Market. For the information of those unacquainted with this Sugar, I will say that it is wholly Maple, in its purest form, made by the farmers of the Green Mountain State, and if it is not equal to the sugar that is sometimes produced in this State from pine trees and molasses heightheads, they are not to blame, as they have no such facilities there for making it. Syrup made of this Sugar, with at least 8 lbs to the gallon, is also to be had at the store where the Sugar is kept. Price $1,25 per gallon.
Sugar, 14 Cents per Pound.
This Syrup makes a superior sauce for all kinds of Pudding, Buckwheat Cakes, &c. It can be made in small quantities in a few minutes by putting a little water with it, and heating it until it melts. It is warranted to give entire satisfaction to all who may use it.

California Steamers,

Carrying the United States Mail.

5th and 20th of each month.

Through Tickets, including transit of the Isthmus, via Panama R. R.

CAUTION TO THE PUBLIC.

On account of the numerous frauds and misrepresentations on travelers, those bound to California are cautioned to buy Tickets at the only authorized Agencies of the United States Mail Line, as below:

By order of the Post-master General, the United States Mail Steamships will hereafter be dispatched from New York to Aspinwall, on the 5th and 20th of each month.

Passengers are landed at the Railroad Depot, Aspinwall, and conveyed across to the Pacific Steamships without any extra expense. This is the only one route entirely Through Tickets, guaranteeing the detention of no Steamers.

Transit made in four hours entirely by daylight, thus avoiding the exposure by night in open boats to fever and ague, and 200 miles of dangerous lake and river navigation, over rocks and shoals.

Arrangements have now been completed, so that the regular C. S. Pacific Mail Steamer will leave Panama on the afternoon immediately on arrival of the Atlantic Mails and passengers, thus securing passage by the Mail line a sure and speedy passage, with the greatest comfort and safety to health.

Tickets must be signed by one of the Company's Agents before they will be recognized by the Agent at Panama, and tickets thus signed can be obtained of the only authorized Agent for the U. S. and Pacific Mail Steamship Companies, in this city. G. L. HALLGARTEN, Agent, No. 10 Broad street, Boston.

American & Foreign Patents

R. H. EDDY,

SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,

Late Agent of U. S. Patent Office, Washington under the Act of 1837.

15 State St., opposite Kilby St.,

BOSTON

AFTER an extensive practice of upwards of twenty years, continues to secure Patents in the United States; also, in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Bonds, Assignments, and all papers or Drawings for Patents, executed on liberal terms, and with despatch. Researches made on American or Foreign works, to determine the validity or utility of Patents or Inventions—and usual opinions rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any Patent furnished by remitting One Dollar. Assignments recorded at Washington.

The Agency is now only the largest in New England, but the oldest inventors have advanced to the opinion that the Patents, of ascertaining the patentability of inventions unsurpassed by, if not unreasonably superior to, any which can be offered elsewhere. The Testimonials below given prove that no one MORE SUCCESSFUL IN THE PATENT OFFICE than the subscriber, and as SUCCESS IS THE BEST PROOF OF ADVANTAGES AND ABILITY, he would add that he has a abundant reason to believe, and can prove, that at no other office of the kind are the charges for professional services so moderate. The immense practice of the subscriber during twenty years past, has enabled him to accumulate a vast collection of specifications and official decisions relative to patents. These, besides his extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and full accounts of patents granted in the United States and Europe, render it probable, beyond question, he offers superior facilities for obtaining Patents.

All necessity of a journey to Washington, to procure a patent, and be disappointed by great delay there are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MAGNUSON, Chief Clerk of Patents.

I have in the course of several years become well aware that the firm of Eddy & Fox possess a competent and faithful clerk and unremitting in their applications in order to secure to their employers the earliest and most favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents.

Washington, February 8, 1856.

Mr. R. H. Eddy has applied for me THIRTEEN Patents and in all instances his patents have been granted, and the instructions given by him have been in no instance of less limit and scope than those of other agents, who have applied at different times before and after my application to him. I prefer to employ Mr. Eddy, because I have found by experience that he is faithful to my interests, and I believe he is competent to secure to me the largest and most valuable patents. JOHN TAGGART.

From Sept. 17, 1855, to June 17th, 1858, the subscriber in course of his large practice, made 500 rejected applications, SEVEREN APPEALS, EVERY ONE of which was decided in favor, by the Commissioner of Patents. R. H. EDDY.

DISCOVERED by an eminent English Surgeon, after years of toil.

This Medicine is questionably the best Alterative ever used; purifying the Blood, giving new and healthy impulse to the functions of the system, and rejuvenating the infirm. It eradicates, at once, all kinds of Humors, Cutaneous Eruptions, Cutaneous affections, Scaly Eruptions, Leprosy, and all kindred diseases, which have their origin in impurity of the blood.

For scrofulous humors, it may properly be regarded as a Specific. No other preparation known to the world so promptly and effectually cleanses the foul humors. Cleanse the fountain and the stream will be pure. Purify the blood and the system will be healthy. Take this Alterative and the blood will be purified. To all who are suffering from Chronic Rheumatism, Liver Complaint, Jaundice, Piles, Blotches in the Eyes, Sallow Blotches on the face, and General Debility, this remedy is offered with the utmost confidence that it will afford speedy relief.

The Economical Hade Grass.

THE results which have been attained by experiments in the cultivation of this newly imported species of product, have awakened an interest among the farming classes, in many sections, never before equalled in the entire history of our agricultural industry. Facts, in regard to its valuable properties, which at first seemed almost incredible, have now been established beyond the possibility of a doubt, and it is believed by those best capable of judging of its merits, that its general introduction will add millions of dollars to our agricultural wealth. I have not the space here to enter into details, but will present briefly some of its advantages.

First—It will produce double the weight in the same quantity of any other kind of grass.—Five dollars to sixteen cents per acre is not an uncommon yield, and I am in possession of affidavits, statements by other reliable and reliable persons, of a yield of over eight tons of good dry hay from a single acre, in soil where it was not possible to get more than one half the amount from any of the common grasses.

Second—The same weight possesses more nutriment, and, consequently, will sell for a larger price in the market, thus insuring the farmer more than double the return from his grounds that he could obtain from any other forage plant. The hay is sweeter and contains more nutriment than timothy, and has sold for $15 per ton, when the price of timothy was but $10 or $12.

Third—Some hay and seed can be produced from the same crop, the hay being equally valuable as other hay after the seed is taken from it, while the seed is as valuable as the best of other grain, as a feed for horses, cattle, pigs, chickens, &c., and it is proved to be superior to linseed for the manufacture of oil, and must always find a ready sale at a fair price, for this purpose.

Fourth—It can be sown in about two months time, and can be sown on grounds, where other crops have failed, either by drouth or other causes, and, at the same time, will yield a large return.

Fifth—In northern climates, where clover and other grasses are killed out by hard winters, this will yield a large crop, and, in those sections of the South where other grasses will not thrive at all, it will grow very prolific.

Sixth—It will do well in all kinds of weather, and, whether the season be wet or dry, the farmer may always rely upon his Honey Blade as a sure crop.

These and other advantages are proved by facts which are endorsed by some of the first agricultrists of the Union and cannot fail to carry conviction to every intelligent reader.

Having been engaged, during the past year, in the purchase and importation of the pure Honey Blade Seed, I have determined to offer it for sale on such terms as will make it an object for every farmer and planter to interest himself, during the coming season, in its cultivation. It is put up in uniform bags, of about sixteen pounds each, the amount being sufficient to seed one acre, and the price is $3 per bag, delivered in New York or St. Louis.

Single bags, or lots, can be sent to any part of the country, as freight or by express, and will be put up, delivered for transportation, and the proper arrangements made, free of charge.

Hungarian grass is imposed with the Hungarian, and the following, extracted from the "Honey Blade Hungarian Grass Seed." It will be sold by agents in various sections, but parties should be careful of whom they purchase, and secure the pure genuine seed, they are especially warned not to purchase the common Hungarian Grass Seed, as it is very far inferior to the Honey Blade.

An interesting pamphlet, containing all of the facts, and full particulars, will be furnished free of charge, by mail, or any of my agents, upon application. I will state, such indication of the intense interest which the subject is exciting, that nearly a quarter of a million of copies of this pamphlet have already been applied for.

Parties desiring to secure seed should order at once, as the indication are that the limited quantity obtained will be exhausted long before the season of sowing has passed. Those who secure seed this year can realize a rich return, by producing seed, to supply the demand of farmers and planters for coming and the year.

Orders should be addressed directly to me, unless in the vicinity of New York, where they will be filled by A. M. Emerson & Co., 406 Broadway, New York, General Agents.

Agricultural Houses, General Merchants, and other parties, properly situated, are invited to become agents for the sale of the Honey Blade Seed. Authority, full particulars, and from 50 to 100 pamphlets for distribution, will be furnished gratuitously on application to the New York Agency, on receipt of 25 cents, to prepay the package.

I feel authorized to name the following, well-known gentlemen as references, Hon. J. R. Partridge, President of the St. Louis Agricultural and Mechanical Association, Vice President of the National Agricultural Society, and Member of Congress, St. Louis; Gen. T. Gilliam, Oxford, Md., President of the National Agricultural Society; John J. Anderson, Banker, St. Louis; John Riggin, Jr., Broker, St. Louis; and ex-Mayor Washington King, St. Louis.
